

Cosmetology

| Course # | Course Name | Course Description |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| COS1-0100 through COS1-0600 & COS2-0100 through COS2-0600 | Cosmetology Theory and Clinic | This course is designed to train the student in basic manipulative skills, safety judgements, proper work habits, and desirable attitudes necessary to achieve skill competency, licensure, and to maintain employment. Students will learn the principles and practices of infection control, properties, procedures and practices of hair and scalp (hair cutting, styling, color technique, etc.), chemical procedures, manicure, pedicure, skin care, salon operations, communication skills, cosmetology laws and rules, and the skills necessary to stand out as a professional in the field. |